Pastor’s Desk

Dear Brothers and Sisters in Christ,

The Lower Church is being transformed this summer into a much brighter worship space, due to the efforts of our parish’s recently formed Emaus Brotherhood. This Spanish-speaking Brotherhood and Sisterhood combines prayer, retreats, and service to the parish. To be fair, our Hispanic Pastoral Council suggested this a number of years ago, but I was not ready to approve. Since then, I have seen how old paneling can be transformed into a brighter finish through some special paint applications, so I gave permission to proceed. At the same time, the recently installed officers of St. John’s Council #1345 Knights of Columbus through their Roundtable Service group have volunteered to help in keeping the interiors of our parish buildings dust and cobweb free. I am grateful to everyone who does their part to make our parish facilities attractive and welcoming!

Our annual instructional—formational series of the Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults will begin once again in October. This is offered for unbaptized adults or adults baptized in another Christian denomination who wish to enter the Catholic Church. It is also available for those baptized as Catholics who did not later receive Communion and/or Confirmation. Our group meets weekly on Sunday mornings. Sessions are offered in English and in Spanish. To inquire more about this, adults 18 and above are asked to be in touch with me or Deacon Jim for the English sessions and Fr. Jonathan for the Spanish sessions.

In addition to his responsibilities at St. John’s, Deacon Jim was recently appointed by Archbishop Myers as Archdiocesan Director of Family Life Ministries. Along with his wife, Trish, and an able staff at the chancery, he will be guiding the many programs and opportunities which nourish the faith of families in all aspects of life, especially important as Pope Francis interacts with the attendees at the World Meeting of Families in Philadelphia in September and convenes the Synod of Bishops at the Vatican on the Family in October.

Reflection on Today’s Readings

Paul tells the Ephesians to be “imitators of God.” This seems to be an odd instruction. Aside from the question of whether anyone can imitate God, we might also ask, do we want to imitate anyone? No one admits to wanting to be a copycat. Yet a certain impulse to imitate seems to be built in to our human nature. Some have even argued that imitation is at the heart of human desire; a major factor in the desirability of something is our perception of its desirability to others. When I see another desiring something, desire is awakened in me. My desire has less to do with the intrinsic worth of the thing I desire and more to do with my imitation of the desire of another. This would explain everything from fads to romantic triangles to professional rivalries.

If my desire is awakened by another person’s desire, this might explain the conflict that arises so often in human relationships. If you and I both want the same object – whether it is a person or a position or a product - and we can’t both have it, then my gain is your loss, and vice versa. And because of such rivalry, we come to view life as a competition and others as a threat, which leads to the evils of which the Letter to the Ephesians speaks: bitterness, fury, anger, shouting, and reviling.

If this is true, why does Paul call on us to imitate God? Because imitating God is not like imitating another person. My gain is not God’s loss. God is not a rival with whom I am in competition because God needs nothing. God lacks nothing. In fact, God is the source of all things. God is pure generosity without boundaries and God desires nothing but that we should share in God’s goodness. This is what Paul means when he tells us to imitate God. We are to claim our share of God’s infinite goodness by being kind to one another, compassionate, forgiving one another as God has forgiven you in Christ.

“Gracious God, you have given us everything that we have and are, and you ask nothing in return except that we embrace your generosity. Help us to imitate your generosity everyday. Amen.”

Stewardship: Sharing our Time, Talent, and Treasure!

“Get up and eat, else the journey will be too long for you!” I Kings 19: 7

Jesus knew that the stewardship journey would be difficult, so He gave us the nourishment of the Eucharist. When we take time to join our sacrifices with the sacrifice of the Mass, we find the strength to give and joy in our giving.

Our “We Are Living Stones” Capital Campaign pledges toward our goal of $1,066,452 now total $731,636.00.

St. John’s Respect Life Ministry

Please turn in your Baby Bottle Donation to the Rectory as soon as possible or give to a priest after any Mass. Only a little over 100 bottles have been returned. It would be greatly appreciated to have all bottles returned (full or empty) as we reuse them again for next year’s Baby Bottle Drive. To replace bottles that have not been returned, the ministry has to take money out of proceeds at a cost of $1.00+ per bottle. Thank you so much for your donations and return of the bottles.
